VOLUSIA COUNTY REAL ESTATE TAXES

Due to the increased values of real properties this year, the total millage rate in Volusia County has raised the real estate taxes paid by each individual property owner to the point that it is burdensome to all, a severe burden to some and a sincere hardship to others.
It is the request of the undersigned petitioners that it is absolutely necessary that all local governments assume roll-back millage rates or lower the millage rates to keep our local economy from seriously faltering.
Current property valuations and millage rates provide an excess of millions of dollars, just in the Volusia County budget alone. By not adopting lower budgets and tax rates, you are dramatically affecting Volusia County citizen's livelihoods and their ability to even continue living in Volusia County.
Having tax rates significantly higher than our neighboring counties also negatively affects our ability to be successful in economic development. The current millage rates are excessive and must be drastically lowered.
